

INSURANCE CAN BE COMPLEX.

Your Strata Manager is here to help.

As a member of the owners corporation, body corporate, strata corporation or strata company, owners are exposed to the liabilities of the strata community up to the full extent of their net wealth.

If a building is damaged or destroyed, and the level of insurance purchased is insufficient to pay for the necessary reinstatement, owners have a joint and several liability to cover the shortfall. Ensuring you have the correct insurance cover in place is vital.

Underinsurance poses a significant risk and exposes owners to unnecessary financial and emotional stress. It's important that you work with your strata manager to protect one of your most valuable assets.

A recent report, commissioned by Strata Community Association and released by Deakin University, has highlighted the value of strata managers in navigating the complexity of the insurance process, and their important role in carrying out insurance services for strata communities.

With our localised knowledge of specific strata communities, strata managers understand the nuances and history of each building, and work with insurers to provide the most effective insurance solutions.

Strata Managers typically have relationships with the insurer's decision makers, and also have experience in managing a portfolio of buildings. As such, we understand common risk factors, and the role insurance plays. We can delineate between accidental damage, defects, and maintenance – which allows for clear communication with the insurer, plus quicker rectification and claim settlement. Seeking guidance from an experienced strata manager can assist with mitigating risk, minimising claims, and reducing insurance costs over the long-term.

With our localised knowledge of specific strata communities, strata managers regularly provide quotes, lodge and administer claims, and maintain record keeping. We're here to help manage your insurance needs.
